

Cover letter for a Working Holidays VISA

Dear Madam, dear Sir,

I am writing this letter to request a working holiday visa for Japan. Japan is a country I have a huge interest in. My fascination began at the age of 8 when I started practicing karate, which I continued for over 7 years. Later, my interest grew with exposure to anime and manga.

A few years ago, I realized that I did not know much about Japan beyond these interests. When I decided to learn Japanese, I discovered more about the country itself, its culture, and its customs.

I started learning Japanese by myself on the internet. When I needed more structured learning, I took online group lessons with around ten people, at a comfortable pace. These lessons helped me achieve my JLPT N5. While this is not an impressive level, I was happy to reach this first goal in my Japanese learning.

With daily practice of Japanese, my desire to travel to Japan and visit the country grew. However, Japan is a huge country with many things to do and places to see, so a short trip was not enough for me. After doing some research, I learned about the working holiday visa, which you can obtain until you turn thirty years old. Since I will turn thirty in 2025, I realized this visa would be the best way for me to travel to Japan.

This is why I am writing this letter : to show you how motivated and determined I am to undertake my dream journey in Japan.

A working holiday visa would allow me to visit the country extensively, improve my Japanese skills, and build meaningful connections with Japanese people. I am looking forward to immersing myself in Japanese culture and living like a local for one year. The most important aspect of this journey for me is to visit different regions of Japan. The working holiday visa fits perfectly with my plans as it will enable me to stay longer in certain places and work to fund my travel activities and transportation costs.

Recently, I transitioned from group lessons to private Japanese lessons to achieve a level of proficiency that will allow me to live comfortably in Japan for a year, although I anticipate some challenges. I hope that an immersive year in Japan will significantly enhance my Japanese language skills.

I sincerely hope this letter conveys how important this journey is to me and how much I am looking forward to achieving this goal that I have nurtured for several years now.

Best regards,
